BOGUS SHEEPSKINS. everal Fraudulent Medical Institutions in New England.

[SPECIAL DISPATCHES TO THE RECORD-UNION.]

Boston, September 29th.-A special from Portsmouth, N. H., says a great sensation was caused there by the discovery of another bogus college of medicine similar in management and larger in extent than the Drind Col. goof Maine, a full expose of which was made some years ago. This latest chartered institution is the Trinity University of Medicine and Sur-gery, having nominal headquarters at Bennington, Vt. Its methods of business briefly told are these: Any person desiring to buy a diploma covering both medicine and surgery has, if possessing the necessary money, been given his choice of the following institutions, all of which exist merely on paper. The University of Commercial Commer

The value of the sheepskins representing the above institutions has varied from $60 o $300 each. There is no doubt but that hundreds of em have been purchased throughout the West and South, while New England alone has been victimized by scores. Dr. Adams, of Manchester, Chairman of the State Board of Censors, while pursuing an official investigation in the State De-VV business ability to employ and manage for us; must invest $100; salary, $100 per month. In the course of his investigations he discovered that hese persons were connected with the Trinity University of Bennington, though passing under other names. Bradoury was also doing an active business in Lowell under the name of Dr. Freeland. There it was learned a large correspondence was received, showing a vast amount of mail was sent from and delivered at Ben-nington, Lowell, Nashua and Boston.

This was probably only a small per cent. of the existing evidence relative to the great systematic swindling which was be-Bradbury, it was learned, figured as "Dr. Ripley," of 71 Cornhill, Boston, where all the correspondence appertaining to the Trinity University was forwarded.

SNELL'S MURDERER.

Three Sensational Stories as to the Real Murderer. CHICAGO, September 29th.—Three brane new Tascott stories have made their appearance to-day. They all purport to solve the mystery of millionaire Snell's murderer but agree only in conveying the impression that Tascott was not the real criminal. The most important of the three narra ives quotes as authority an alleged wellknown lawyer, whose name is withheld. He says he was counseled professionally the day after the murder, by one of two men who did the killing. His name was James Gillan, an ex-convict, now dead. Tascott's connection with the case is explained in this version by the statement that Gillan had hidden the plunder in Tascott's room during the latter's absence from the city. A sensational feature of this story is the unqualified statement that Gillan, on his death-bed at the county hospital, six months ago, made a full confeson of the crime to Father J. Sullivan of St. Jartlath's Catholic Church. The dramatic alleged details as to Father ullivan's horror-stricken appearance after earning the secret are given, accompanied regentlemen and wives or single gentlemen; by the descriptions of the noty peace that terms reasonable. tity is not even hinted at, and that they killed Snell as an incident in the course of their professional occupation, and have their professional occupation, and have since disposed of Tascott, against whon suspicion was unjustly directed.

The trimmings of this article are tha Tascott was an illegitimate son, and that after the tragedy he was hidden for months in his mother's house disguised as a servant girl and was taken by her to the Pa-Alaska.

To-night the Gillan story was exploded even more thoroughly than it had been by Father Sullivan. It will be remembered that the Senate Committee made a report regarding what should be done with the Union Pafic for the payment of its debt, but deferred their opinion as to what action hould be taken with reference to the Central Pacific. It may also be remembered that Colonel Haymond appeared before that committee in March, 1888, when he nade a most able argument, and advised the committee that before they reported they should visit California, so that they would be better prepared to say what plan should be pursued. In pursuance of this aggestion, the committee will visit this They are expected here via Ogden, nd will return by way of the Oregon and alifornia and Northern Pacific. THE Utah Commission reports to the Federal Government that in its opinion Congress should pass laws severely punishing women who enter into the polygamous relation, as such infliction would lessen their zeal. This is gross error. The history of all time proves that the most faithful fanatics of superstition, the most devoted and self-sacrificing of religionists are women. If it is true, as the Commission recites, many Mormons accept polygamy not from choice, but because they are taught, then the punishment of Mormon women for adherence to the tenet of their faith would simply strengthen them in it. They would burn at the stake before they would recant, and suffer in dungeon cells rather than disobey the command to be "sealed" to the brethren of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints. It has been our fortune to know many of these peoare no devotees on earth more courageous, faithful and ready to suffer martyrdom for their belief than the sincere Mormon women—the few insincere do not enter into the polygamic state, at least very rarely. To attach penalties to these misguided women and attaint them of crime would not serve to check the evil, but rather to aggravate it. The penalties against polygamous men, however, may well be intensified. The Commission is wise in recommending that the immigration of Mormon converts be forbidden, on the Mormon converts be forbidden, on the ground that they are taught to live in defiance of the laws, and to hold their allegiance to be due first to the church, and as between it and the State, to hold the latter an enemy in case of conflict. They therefore may be placed by legislation among "dangerous classes." The class of immigrants that is taught in advance to hate the Government they are about to be defined in the latter and the state, to hold the latter and the State, to hold the latter and enemy in case of conflict. They therefore may be placed by legislation among "dangerous classes." The class of immigrants that is taught in advance to hate the Government they are about to to hate the Government they are about to take refuge under, to despise its mandates and defy its laws, is the very class of all

Act supra.

LATE GRAND JURY.

He Submits to the Attorney-General a Full Statement of the Facts in Issue.

Some months since the Grand Jury of Sacramento county filed a report directing the District Attorney of this county to bring suits against certain officers and others to recover moneys alleged by it to have been illegally drawn from the county treasury. The Grand Jury subsequently the filed a supplemental report, excepting the refrom certain sums drawn by certain persons that were included in the first report. In forming its judgment on both of the reports the District Attorney was not consulted as to whether or not the determination has not been decided. It will not be contended that the judgment of a Court rendered pro forma because of doubts entertained as to the law applicable to the case, and in order that the case may be heard by an appellate Court, is not a judgment. In this case the Board doubted whether the petitioner's claim was legally chargeable against the county. (Tilden vs. Sacramento county, 41 Cal., 73.)

It being conceded that the Board in passing upon a claim acts judicially, can a claim which has been so passed upon, allowed and paid, although illegal, be recovered by the county?

"Hereafter, when any Board of Supervisors shall, without any authority of law order any money paid as a salary, fees or any other purposes, and such money shall have been actually paid," the District Attorney of such county is hereby empowered to bring suit. (Sec. 8, County Gov. Act.)

hereby empowered to bring suit. (Sec. 8, County Gov. Act.)

The above section gives the District Attorney power to bring suit in the name of the county without an order of the Board of Supervisors. I take it that Section 8, County Government Act, created no new rights or remedies. It gives the power to the District Attorney when the Board of Supervisors shall without autnority of law order any money paid, etc., without the authorization of the Board, to immediately begin an action against the parties who have received the money. There is no question but that, before the passage of this Act, the Board could order the District Attorney to bring suit against parties under similar circumstances. In could order the District Attorney to bring suit against parties under similar circumstances. In both cases the suit would have to be brought in the name of the county and the only difference arises in whom the authority is to order the commencement of the action. The Board may still order the District Attorney to bring suit in the name of the county in all cases where it could before the passage of Section 8. County Government Act, but now the District Attorney need not wait for such authorization.

In each lot these cases we will say, for the purpose of this argument that the officer presented to the Board his claim against the county. That to the Board his claim against the county. That an examination was had of said claim. That it was duly audited, settled, allowed and paid, and that in each instance under a misappre-hension of the law, although with a full know-ledge of the facts, an illegal charge was made against the county.

The leading case upon this subject is Superrisors of Onondago vs. Briggs, 2 Denio, pg. 25, Bronson, Judge. The Court say:

"It is said that the taxation is not conclusive when the officer allows are in the conclusive." when the officer allows charges which are not authorized by the fee bill, and the reason assigned is, that when the officer goes beyond the fee bill he has no jurisdiction. If the argument be carefully analyzed it will, I think, be found to come to this: when the officer decides right, the decision is conclusive, but when he decides wrong, the decision is good for nothing—he has jurisdiction to decide right, but no jurisdiction to decide wrong. With great respect I must be permitted to say that this reasoning is utterly fallacious. It would not only overturn the authority of axing officers, but it would upset the jurisdiction of every other officer and Court in the State. The power to decide at all necessarily carries with it the power to decide wrong as well as hen the officer allows charges which are not The power to decide at all necessarily carries with it the power to decide wrong as well as right. The taxing officers allowed nothing where there were not plausible grounds for making the allowance. Each of the accounts was accompanied by an affidavit, the proof prescribed and allowed by law, that all the services therein charged had been actually performed. Now, although as to some of the charges, there can be no doubt that the taxing of the officers was wrong, still it was but an error of judgment and not a defect of jurisdiction. Taxing officers have been appointed for the very purpose among others of determining whether the charges come within the ststute allowing fees. That is part of their jurisdiction. To say that they may decide the question and yet that the determination is void when they fall into error is a legal absurdity. Whatever may have been determination is void when they fall into error is a legal absurdity. Whatever may have been their motives, the facts that the services were actually performed, that there was a claure in the fee bill under which they might be allowed and that there was no published decision, nor even dictum against making the allowance are sufficient, and much more than sufficient to show that the efficers had authority to determine whether the charges should be allowed or not.

'It it was a mistake of any kind it was not a mistake of fact, but of law, and it is fully set-tled that proof of such a mistake will not enable the party to recover back money which he has voluntarily paid under a claim of right. "The law will never do so absurd a thing as to hold that money which has been paid under an adjudication that it is the party's due can be recovered back. To take money in pursuance of such an adjudication is neither an illegal nor criminal act. A different doctrine would set the law in array against itself." (Supervisors of Onondaga vs. Briggs, 2 Denio 26. Also Emelson the law in array against itself." (Supervisors of Onondaga vs. Briggs, 2 Denio 26. Also Emelson vs. State, 16 Ind. 29.)
Chief Justice Field renders the following designer. cision: "The solution of the second question depends upon the character of the payments— whether they were voluntary or made under ompulsion or coercion.

The rule is at this day well settled, that noneys voluntarily paid upon a claim of right with full knowledge of all the facts, cannot be recovered back, merely because the party at the time of payment was ignorant of or mistook the law as to his liability.

"The illegality of the demand paid constitutes of itself no ground for relief. There must be some compulsion or coercious test which is the components of the constitution of the components of the constitution of the components of the constitution of the constitutio of itself no ground for relief. There must be some compulsion or coercion attending its assertion, which controls the conduct of the party making the payment. It is the compulsion or coercion under with the party is supposed to act which gives him a right to relief. If he voluntarily pay an illegal demand knowing it to be illegal, he is of course entitled to no consideration, and if he voluntarily pay such demand in Ignorance or misapprebension of the law respecting its validity he is in no better position, for it would be against the highest policy to permit transactions to be opened upon grounds of this character." this character." of this character."

Every man, as said Lord Ellenborough in Bilbie vs. Lumley, 2 East, 472, must be taken to be cognizant of the law; otherwise there is no saying to what extent the excuse of ignorance might be carried. It has been say in the carried of the law; saying to what extent the excuse of ignorance might be carried. It would be urged in almost every case. (Fullam vs. Down, 6 Esp., 26; Brisban vs. Dacres, 2 Taunt., 141) in judgment of law there is no mistake, every man being held, for the wisest reason, to be cognizant of the law." The act, therefore, against which the party seeks relief is his own voluntary act and he must abide by it. In that case it was held after an elaboration. against which the party seeks relief is his own voluntary act and he must abide by it. In that case it was held after an elaborate examination of the English authorities, that where money is paid with a full knowledge of the facts and circumstances upon which it is demanded, or with the means of such knowledge, it cannot be recovered back upon the ground that the party supposed he was bound in law to pay it when in truth he was not. He shall not be permitted, said the Court, to allege his ignorance of the law, and it shall be considered a voluntary payment. (Leading case, 79 Am. Dec., 177; Brumagim vs. Tillinghast, 18 Cal., 265, citing Preston vs. Boston, 12 Pick., 7; Boston and Sandwich Glass Company vs. The City of Boston, 4 Metcalf, 189; Chase vs. Dwinal, 7 Greenleaf, 139; Smith vs. Inhabitants of Redfield, 27 Me., 145; Mays vs. Cincinnat, 1 Ohio State, 268; Robinson vs. City Council of Charleston, 2 Rich., 317; Mowatt et al. vs. Wright, 1 Wend, 355; Wyman vs. Farensworth, 3 Barb., 370; Elliott vs. Sartwout, 10 Pet., 138; Mayor, etc. of Baltimore vs. Lefferman, 4 Gill., 425.

Relief against mistakes in law is refused upon the principle, said the Supreme Court of ew York in Clark vs. Dutcher, 9 Cowen. 674, "that is independent of law there."

If we were to hold otherwise many inconveniences may arise; there are many doubtful questions of law; when they arise the party has an option either to litigate the question or to submit to the demand and pay the money. I think that by submitting to the demand he that pays the money gives it to the person to whom he pays it and makes it his own, and closes the transaction. (4 Gill, 425.)

"It is settled law that one who voluntarily pays money with full knowledge or means or "It is settled law that one who voluntarily pays money with full knowledge or means or knowledge of alt the facts without any fraud having been practiced upon him cannot recover it back by reason of the payment having been made in ignorance of the law." (Gould vs. McFall, 4 Am. Dec., 607, and cases cited.)

The above is the leading case upon the subject, and was decided January. 1888. After a careful and thorough search I have been unable to find any decision rendered by any Court at any time which holds contrary to the views above expressed.

The case of the City and County of Sacramento vs. Bird, Treasurer, is apparently against the above proposition but a close examination of it will show that it is not a case in point. This suit was brought to recover from Bird, the County Treasurer, a sum of money in his hands

Paid by the Treasurer of the county, on warrants duly drawn upon him, can the county recover the money back?

The Board of Supervisors has the powers expressed in Section 25 of the County Government Act supra.

The Board of Supervisors, in passing upon a claim, acts judicially. There can be no question about this being the law. (El Dorado county vs. Kls'ner, 18 Cal., 149; Tilden vs. Board of Supervisors, 41 Cal., 79.)

In the last case the Court say: "The Board, its payment was in no sense a volciaim paid, its payment was in no sense a volciaim could be audited, and no one to order the claim paid, its payment was in no sense a volciaim paid, its payment was in no sense a volciaim could be addited, and no one to order the claim paid, its payment was in no sense a volciaim could be addited, and no one to order the claim paid, its payment was in no sense a volciaim could be addited, and no one to order the claim paid, its payment was in no sense a volciaim could be addited, and no one to order the claim paid, its payment was in no sense a volciaim could be addited, and no one to order the claim paid, its payment was in no sense a volciaim could be addited, and no one to order the claim paid, its payment was in no sense a volciaim could be addited, and no one to order the claim paid, its payment was in no sense a volciaim could be addited, and no one to order the claim paid, its payment was in no sense a volciaim could be addited, and no one to order the claim paid, its payment was in no sense and the principal users of the Court held that the examples of the Court held that the statutes of 1880 and 1881 were repugnant to the provisions of the Constitution upon the subject of compensation, and that was made the principal users of compensation, and that was made the principal users of the Court held that there was no tribunal or Board or Board or The Court held that there was no tribunal or Board or Board or The B

When the Board of Supervisors of a county allows a bill they act as a quasi-judicial body and their allowance and settlement of a claim is an adjudication thereof which is conclusive. (Coiusa county vs. De Jarnett, 55 Cal., 375.) It is not true that the Board of Supervisors performs precisely the constant. performs precisely the same acts that a Court would, were the claim prosecuted before it. They must hear testimony, find the facts, construe and apply the law to those facts, in order to ascertain and settle the legal rights of the parties before them and pronounce a judgment for or against one or the other.

Are these not judicial acts?

for or against one or the other.

Are these not judicial acts?

The word "Supervisors," when applied to county officers, has a legal signification. The dutes of the officers are various and manifold. Sometimes judicial, at others legislative and executive. From the necessity of the case it would be impossible to reconcile them to any particular head, and therefore in matters relating to the police and fiscal regulations of the counties they are allowed to perform such duties as may be enjoined upon them by law without any nice discrimination into the exact character of powers conferred. (People vs. Supervisors of El Dorado county, 8 Cal., 62.) The Board of Supervisors is a special tribunal, with mixed powers—administrative, legislative and judicial. Its judgments or ortribunal, with mixed powers—administrative, legislative and judicial. Its judgments or orders cannot be attacked in a collateral way or made any more than the judgments of Courts of record, no matter whether it acted upon sufficient or insufficient proof, regularly or irregularly. (Waugh vs. Chauncey, 12 Cal., 12; Robinson vs. Board of Supervisors of Sacramento.)

The decision of County Commissioners that a claim against a county is valid is conclusive against the county. (Cuthbert vs. Lewis, 6 Ala., 262.)

Under the Code, an action cannot be maintained against a party to recover a claim which

Under the Code, an action cannot be maintained against a party to recover a claim which has been allowed by the County Commissioners.

Marshall Co. vs. Jackson Co., 36 Ala, 636.)

Supposing that Sections 3393 and 1901 of the Political Code to have been repealed by implication by Sections 211 and 231 of the County Government Act, were the Supervisors acting within the scope of their powers in passing upon claims presented for service rendered under said sections, there being no decision or opinion or dictum deciding them to be invalid or repealed? There is no contention that the opinion or dictum deciding them to be invalid or repealed? There is no contention that the services were not performed, as required by Sections 3655, 37.28, 3732 and 1897 of the Political Code, nor that the compensation asked for and received by the Assessor was not a reasonable one, nor that the purpose of the Board was to follow the law in paying his demand, nor that the Board was acting under duress when they allowed the claims. The contention that Sections 3893 and 1901 were actually repealed is open to much question, for, as has been suggested, there have been various amendments made to both the Political Code and the County Government Act in 1883. And in the face of the fact that said Sections 3893 and 1901 appear upon the face Act in 1883. And in the face of the fact that said Sections 3893 and 1901 appear upon the face of the Political Code as the law, the Legislature has never attempted to expressly repeal said sections, and until these matters shall have been decided by a competent tribunal will remain as the apparent law of the land. I am credibly informed that all of the Boards of Supervisors in this State, without exception, have been allowing claims against the various counties similar to the one here under discussion. So that the Supervisors of Sacramento were only carrying out what they had every resson to be-So that the Supervisors of Sacramento were only carrying out what they had every resson to believe was their plain and sworn duty, in allowing these claims under what appeared to be to them the law. In Miller vs. Dunn, 72 Cal., 468, the Court says: "The phrase 'without express authority of law' was used in view of the judicial and legislative history of the State, and yet it is by no means clear that it was intended to prevent the payment of a just claim, expressly authorized by an Act in due form duly passed and approved, and within the scope of lawfui legislation, simply because after the work was done the Court may upon great deliberation and searching investigation declare the Act for some reason, such as defect in title, a wrongful delegation of power and unconstitutional. gation of power and unconstitutional

After a thorough investigation of these questions I feel constrained to say that if the Board of Supervisors had refused payment in each of these cases that it could not have been enforced against them by a suit brought against the county. And even if the Board had allowed the claims at any time before their payment, notwithstanding the allowance, the county by injunction or otherwise might have delended and restrained payment thereof. (Sec. 594, Dillon on Mun. Cor.) Sec. 504, Dillon on Mun. Cor.) Sec. 504, Dillon on Mun. Cor.)
In conclusion I will say I believe that if the officers had asked for extra deputies to perform the service required of them, that the Board would have replied that they being blowed comparation by Board would have replied that they being allowed compensation by Sections 3893 and 1901 of the Pol. Code, they could not be allowed extra deputies, at that time there being no reason to believe that said sections had been repealed. On the other hand, if the Board had believed that Sections 3693 and 1901 were repealed they undoubtedly would have allowed the officers extra deputies and paid them to have performed such labor under Section 211 of the County Government Act.

I have, I believe, fully stated the law bearing upon the cases submitted to you, and it is but upon the cases submitted to you, and it is but proper for me to say in conclusion that in my judgment the county cannot successfully maintain the suits referred to. Respectfully submitted, ELWOOD BRUNER,

District Attorney, Sacramento county.

"THE TEMPEST STILLED." New Pastor of the Central Metho

said unto the sea, peace be still, and the wind ceased, and there was a great calm." "Only those who have witnessed the display of the sovereign power of the ocean," said the speaker, "can know of the might of its scepter. Standing upon the shore you see only His gentler mandates obeyed; only the brushing of the fringe of his robe of resistless royalty. The sands have grown gray and the rock wrinkled through their esistance; and yet each swell of the ocean is as mighty and vigorous as the day when God set bounds to the sea. The tide comes in and the tide goes out, obeying not even the commands of a Canute. You watch the swells coming in from afar, sweeping to the grand march. You watch the break ers piling high the white foam ; you watch the surf in its resistless advance and retreat, and the thought of the might and power and grandeur and sublimity of the great ocean overwhelms you. How small we seem, how weak, how insignificant do we appear, even when we stand upon the shore and look out upon the great waters; but only those who have ridden upon the back of the monster, when he is lashed into foaming fury by the whip of the tempest, can know the awful-ness and terror of his anger. Pile upon pile stand the waste of waters like great mountains snow-capped. The vessel upon which you have risked your life, that seemed so huge and strong while in the harbor, dwindles into a mere toy, and is ifted like a feather to the summit of an Everest as by a Hercules, and then dropped lown into the deepest canvon, only to be lifted up again and hurled down the precipice into the seething chasm. Then it is we feel our helplessness; then it is we realze the power of the ocean, and are compelled to acknowledge that He who would by word calm the tempest could be none other than God. There are billows of sorrow, and breakers of temptation, and whirl-winds of disaster, and mountains of persecution, and waves of misfortune. There are storms in childhood; there are storms in youth; there are storms in middle life and there are storms in old age. Life's ocean is not pacific-it is stormy. have found it so, and have all found times when it seemed that our frail bark would go to pieces upon the sharp rocks. Who is guiding your vessel on this voyage? a trustworthy and experienced pilot? Jesus Christ is the only true and safe pilot that ever stood at the helm of an eternity-bound bark. He knows every sandbar of temptaion that might strand your vessel. knows every undertow of the human heart. The winds and waves obey His will; and when the storm rages fiercely and yawning chasms seem ready to engulf us, He will arise and rebuke the wind, and say to the sea, "Peace be still," and there will be a great calm. There is no artificial calm for great caim. There is no artificial calm for the soul. There is but one calm, and that is God's calm. He says to the sea be still, and there is a great calm; and He will guide the storm-tossed back into the guide the storm-tossed bark into the haroor, where there is no pain, nor sickness nor death; neither sorrow nor crying, and God shall wipe all tears from your eyes.

"When the Romans, by conqest, might have given laws to the Grecians at Corinth in the solemn times of the Isthmian games. their General, by a herald, unexpectedly proclaimed freedom to all the cities of Freece. At first the Grecians could not believe that good news was true; but when it was proclaimed a second time, they gave a mighty shout of joy. How much greater should be our joy over the peace that God offers to us—the proclamation of the peace of conscience; that peace which is not of our bodies, but of our souls-not of an earthly, but of our heavenly estate: a peace begun here and that shall endure forever; such a peace that shall make God at peace with us, and make us at concord

SOMETHING LIKE IT.

THE SACRAMENTO NINE SETTLES DOWN

Into the Players-The Game at the Bay.

The Sacramentos played ball yesterday as though each individual member of the nine was working to avoid being released. The way they batted and fielded indicated that new life had been instilled into them since the new manager took charge, and the result of this "pull together" was that the San Francisco club was never in the race during the whole game. The home nine started right in to play ball, and they won from the Bay nine by a margin of six runs, the score being 10 to 4. There was a decided increase in the attendance, which goes to show that the Sacramento public will support their nine if they only make pretensions of playing ball.

"It's pretty late in the season, but we've just started in," says Veach, "and will try to lessen the distance between third and fourth place at least." When a stranger comes to town and sees the Sacramentos win a game, he wonders how they are beaten so often with such a lot of good players. The reason they have lost was undoubtedly because they didn't care, one way or the other, but when they came to find out the public were not going to pay to see a game of "one-old-cat," they began to seen where the mistake came in. Manager Gleason has evidently stirred them up, and their work yesterday indicates that they will play ball hereafter.

San Francisco was outplayed at every point. The Sacramentos played a strong steady game both at the bat and in the field. Up to the sixth inning the score was not "marred" with a single error. The visitors made more errors than were excusable, and (undoubtedly expecting an easy victory) they did't try hard enough in the start. Before the fourth inning commenced, Sacramento had a lead of five runs, and at the finish of the game they increased it to six.

Clay Chipman umpired his last game this season. His decisions were invariably correct, and with the exception of the "jabbering" of a few cranks in the grand of a play from where they are sitting better than the umpire who is right where the play is made. In Saturday's game here, the umpire had one of these individuals spotted out and came within an ace of ordering him out of the grounds. The umpire has such power. Clay says he promised President Mone to umpire only for a business. It is not known who will be the afternoon the Master's address will selected as a successor. Probably "Mike" Fisher would like the position.

when he heard the sound of the large gong in the reporters' stand. He concluded that his "clock" must be decidedly off, for by i he had full half an hour to go on. He wouldn't trust to his timepiece, however, and pulling his score-book from his pocket he lit out on the dead run for the grounds, and almost paralyzed the gate-keeper as he darted through the opening. He found to his dismay, however, that the bell had only been rung to call the San Franciscos in from practice, and he spent the rest of the time previous to the beginning of the game in giving the joke away, while at the same time annihilating a bag of peanuts.

Burke did great work in the box and kept the five hits the San Franciscos did get, well scattered. Barry didn't do bad at errors was excusable. In the latter case he was blinded by the runner.

not look well against a catcher's record. They all have off days, however, and "Pop" froze onto some fouls in old style. Goodenough played the center garden to the Queen's taste. He fielded the ball promptly, had five put-outs, and drove out a home-run in the fourth inning. Burke made a harder hit than that of Good-

His fielding was as it always is, and one of his fly catches was a most difficult one, close up to the left-field fence. McSorley and O'Day were ready for anything that came their way, but Newbert was the least bit too sure. He made a couple of low throws to first. One of them was particularly bad, but "Bill" Veach cleverly scraped it off the ground. The latter's catch of a high foul in the third inning was loudly applauded, and it was Gagus has a clean score of goose eggs. Lohman caught Burke without any difficulty, and the fact that not a San Francisco man stole a base, proves that the Bay sprinters have some regard for Sacramento's new catcher, as far as his throwing ability is concerned. The San Franciscos did some excellent work in the seventh inning. The Sacra-mentos had the bases full and no outs, but they succeeded in scoring only one run. Two men were touched out at the plate.

AMUSEMENTS.

Thomas Craven's melodrama "The Stowaway" will be presented for the first time in this city at the Metropolitan Theater to night. The play has held the boards in England for five years, and is still drawing good houses there. It has been presented in New York, Brooklyn, Boston, Philadelphia and other Eastern cities, and lately made a great hit at the California Theater, in San Francisco. The play is described as mingling pathos with humor in the most delicate fashion, while it has many absorbing climaxes which are finely worked up. The safe-cracking, done by two ex-convicts, is a most interesting part of the play, but the vacht scene is far ahead of it in beauty, action and scenery. It is promised that the same scenery will be used here as at the California Theater, where the play had cupies apartments in the rear of the establishment with his family, and he, too, had suffered much from these nocturnal prowlers. About three weeks ago his dwelling was entered, and a quantity of clothing, fruit and other articles were stolen. Again his apartments were entered on last Thursday night, and another installment of household wares disappeared.

Kaiser became exasperated, and complained at the police station. Officers patroled the neighborhood all of Friday night, but there were no develop-But Kaiser was not satisfied with their efforts, and kept watch himself. Saturday evening he stationed himself in a shed just back of his dwelling, and through which the burglars invariably effected an entrance. He continued his vigil until a late hour, and no one appeared to disturb him. Nothing daunted, he resumed his watch again last night, and sat in a secluded corner, armed with a double-barreled shot-He was getting sleepy and was just about to give up and go to bed, when shortly be-fore 11 o'clock he heard the sound of stealthy footsteps in the alley just outside

Kaiser held his breath and waited. Presently a board was noiseless removed rom the side of the shed, and Kaiser observed in the shadow the outlines of two men. They held a whispered conversation or a moment and then entered. Kaiser crouched lower and strained his eyes to follow their movements. They approached a little cupboard which occupies one corner of the shed, and which contained several dozen jars of fruit, and pegan ransacking it. Kaiser was satisfied hat they were not there for any good, and that they were the individuals who had paid him the previous midnight visits.

"Throw up your hands!" suddenly exclaimed Kaiser, and he brought the shotgun to bear upon the burglars.

For a second neither man spoke nor stirred. Then recovering from their surprise they both made a bolt for the small opening through which they had entered. One of them managed to get through, and Kaiser commanded them to halt. They paid no attention to him, however, and the second man was just squeezing through the The full charge of buckshot entered the right side of the burglar's head after tearng a large hole in the side of the shed.

The burglar ran about sixty feet up the alley before he fell. The report of the shotgun attracted the attention of the watchman of the cannery and other persons, and they quickly gathered in front of Kaiser's place. told then what he had done, and said he thought he had shot somebody. A lantern was procured and a search of the alley was rewarded by a ghastly sight. The burglar lay in the dust, face down, and was a mass peared to have been blown open. He was dead when they examined him, and probably had been for several minutes.

The Coroner was telephoned for, as was also the police. Officer Matt. Coffey first arrived on the scene and made an investigation, and later on Captain Karcher and while for the same date last year it was 78 others arrived. The latter placed Kaiser under arrest. Deputy Coroner George H. Clark took

The Odd Fellows' Relief Committee Visits the Folsom Prison. At a quarter to 7 o'clock yesterday mornng the Odd Fellows' General Relief Committee left their rooms at Ninth and K streets on their annual excursion. At Folsom the committee was received by Granite Lodge, I. O. O. F., and escorted to their hall, where half an hour was pleasantly spent while fresh borses were being attached to the conveyances to carry the visitors to the prison grounds.

Warden Aull met them at the main entrance and invited them into the spacious reception room. Thence he accompanied them to the big dam, explaining in detail the work, answering patiently and concisely the questions "fired" at him from all

The visitors are unanimous in saying that notwithstanding they had heard and read much of the dam, they had not the slightest conception of the magnitude of the work, nor can any one fully appreciate it without visiting it in person. Returning to the prison grounds the Warden pointed out a shady spot on the slope near the prison, and there the ex-cursionists spread their luncheon. At 3 o'clock the prisoners were locked in their cells, and the Warden invited his visitors to step inside the massive iron doors, which they did, and for half an hour the Odd Fellows' Relief Committee were behind the bolts and bars of the State Prison. Under the escort of the affable Warden and his numerous subordinates they were conducted through every department of the institution, the prison band meanwhile discoursing excellent music. This, he alleges, will cause a violent rup-ture and great suffering throughout the country. The nation will then rise and squelch the wretches. A brief season of political and social chaos will then ensue, and then will come the era of Boulanger. I need scarcely tell you that these ravings of the shallow tool of the mischiefmakers excite only smiles of amusement among sensible people here, and are likely Boulangist faction. It is reported that the Governorship of Indo-China has been offered by the Gov- point of true value, including climate, proernment to Jules Ferry. This is a sure indication of the desire of the Republicans to get rid of the disturbing influence of the leader of the Opportunists in the Chamber of Deputies, but it is doubted if a hundred-fold than are the lands of any Ferry would accept. The offer sounds like other State or Territory in the Union. As sarcasm, considering the Tonquin affair, and the caricaturists are pretty sure to make use of it and to utilize Ferry's famous nose a cauliflower thrown from a box occupied by five young men.

Bessie picked up the vegetable and threw it back with the agility of a shortstop making an out at the plate. Then she burst into tears and wept on the stage, while the five humorous youths were summarily led out by their five collars.

Those Mexican Claims.

Paris, September 29th.—An association of holders of Mexican bonds has been formed for the purpose of obtaining recognition from the Mexican Government of the French loans of 1864 and 1865. The committee of the association asks for repayment of the bonds at par, less 164 francs repaid by the French Imperial Government after the downfall of Maximilian, leaving a total of 802 francs per bond. M. Spuller, Minister of Finances, upholds the validity of this claim in spite of Mexico's stipulation on resuming diplomatic relations with France in 1880 that France

Denouncing the Italians. DUBLIN, September 29th.—Archbishop Logue, the Catholic prelate of Ireland, preaching in the Armagh Cathedral to-day referred in the strongest terms to Italy's treatment of the Pope. He declared the Italian peasantry were over-taxed and in a worse condition than the Bonegal Connemara peasants; that the Italians were emigrating faster than the Irish, and that the Italian Government had encircled the Vatican with troops, knowing that if the Pope departed grass would soon grow in the streets of Rome.

Distributing the Awards.3 Paris, September 29th.—The Exhibition awards were distributed to-day. Best to Plant this Winter." In introducing the subject Mr. Williamson said that one fruit was almost entirely overlooked in California, and that was the apple. Early apples could be grown at a good profit in the Sacramento valley, and he instanced the fact that this family and he instanced the fact that the family and he instanced the family and he inst stanced the fact that this fruit sold in the San Francisco market this year for $1 to $1 50 per box, while in Denver as high as $3 per oox was paid for them. Even at this price the fruit was not easily obtainable, and the upply is growing scarcer every year. Winter apples would do well in the Sierra and the Santa Cruz mountains, in the bay counties and along the north Pacific coast. There was no necessity for sending to Ore-1850 he returned to Algeria, where he constructed the advanced fort of Bou-Saada, and took part in the campaign against the Webyles under General St. Arnaud in 1851 very large saving can be made in favor of matter rest without trying. On account of the codlin moth the early apples might be the more profitable, as the pests did not attack these trees as much as they did those of later growth.

Peaches, also, would be a good fruit to plant this winter. The tree is a comparatively short-lived one, and those planted early in the history of the State are now The real estate men of San Francisco are dying out. The tree is a profitable one, and there is never an overplus of the fruit. and in this case cannot help seeing at once Of the early varieties he preferred the Tus-Apricots are and always will be a profit-

Prunes do well over a large area of the State and there is always a demand for them. Wherever they grow to advan-tage orchardists cannot do better than plant them. He believed the Silver prune o be a better article than the French prune, and was of the opinion that from this time on, more of them would be planted than of the latter variety. Almonds pay well in some sections the State, but he would not recommend their planting in Southern California. For some reason they did not do well there, and many orchardists were grubbing up their trees. The best growing and most prolific variety of this nut tree which he had yet met he called the Texas He had found them near Dallas, Texas, where they had been raised from seedlings. Some few have been introduced into this State, but they are not yet old enough to bear, and it might be that the change would not be a beneficial one for them. He did not know, however, hat such would be the case, and hardly nought it would. The tree, par excellence, however, he elieved to be the fig, and he believed this dustry would be the largest in California. He was in expectation of seeing the time when California figs, raisins and prunes would drive the imported articles from the parkets of the United States. The White Adriatic and the Verdora were both good figs, the latter, if anything, being the better. Externally they look alike, but while the White Adriatic has a red inside, the other has a white meat. The San Pedro, known as the White Smyrna, is the largest fig grown in the State. When artificially dried, it is one of the finest looking of the export figs, but it cannot be dried in the sun. The common purple fig of California is a strong grower and an immense producer, and even at three cents per pound for the dried article is a most profitable tree. The White Isthmus is a good fig. The Pacific White would be an extraordinary good fig if it were not for its tough skin. If some means could be found for softening this, the tree would be sufficient, but he had his own way. The coming to maturity. These trees were seresult was he didn't have a bottle. Every others, by Mr. Parker of Penryn. The tree was a heavily wooded one, a strong grower and the fruit exceptionally fine. He had within a short time set out several of these trees which did not mature in his Sacramento orchard, near Penryn, and hoped in a short time to be able to tell whether it was locality and climate which had prevented the fruit from naturing. The best country for the fig he pelieved to be the foothills of the Sierra, where the soil was of a granite formation. One other tree which had been imported this State from Southern Europe was doing exceedingly well and promising even etter. He referred to the olive, which will do well at many places in California. So far, the majority of the olive groves have been planted along the coast, but this believed in planting it back in the Sierra oothills in the same kind of soil as that used for the fig. Here the trees were not troubled with the fog, and were more healthy, while they yielded just as heavy crops and were just as rich in oil. The old Spanish or Mission olive he believed to be the best, notwithstanding the fact that many new varieties had been imported of late. The picholine olive has got a black eye, which it did not deserve. To be sure the fruit is
